Michaela Harrison is a New Orleans-based vocalist, writer and healer who uses song to disseminate healing and share the power of music as a tool for progressive social and personal transformation. Her vocal style draws from her gospel roots and includes myriad genres, at the core of which are jazz, soul, blues, pop, Brazilian Popular Music (MPB), and freedom songs. She spends several months a year in Bahia, Brazil, where she also performs regularly.

With New Orleans native Joy Clark
on guitar and backup vocals.

Offbeat magazine says: “Michaela Harrison has a formidable voice. The Frenchmen Street chanteuse [has] an impressive range as well as easy command of English and Portuguese. ... With an instrument like this at her command, Harrison can pretty much take on anything.”

Don't miss this exciting and uplifting evening!
